Heather -- Yes, I see the wisdom in getting the report to your contacts before the public distribution..but I think that needs to happen after the internal distribution, i.e. Council and Divisions, etc.

If all goes to plan I think we will be able to distribute the report internally Friday afternoon and then externally Tuesday morning.

Maybe you could go to your contacts at 9:00 AM and we will go to media and post on the APA website at 11:00 AM on Tuesday?

How does that sound to everyone?

Hi, everyone:

If I'm reading my email correctly it sounds like the Ethics Committee is looking at the Task Force report this afternoon and then the Board will react accordingly and as quickly as possible. Assuming it turns out that you all think the report may be released -- Rhea, do you agree that I can send an advance copy and cover letter to Secretary of Defense (Rumsfeld) and his underlings for Health Affairs and Intelligence (Winkenwerder and Cambone), Attorney General (Gonzales), National Director of Intelligence (Negroponte), possibly someone in White House domestic policy (TBA) and our psychologists in Congress (Baird, Murphy, Osborne and Strickland)? By advance, I mean a really short period before we send it to our membership and everywhere else (couple of hours maybe).

If so, I'd like to draft a cover letter now in case we have a quick turnaround tomorrow, and I'll need appropriate language to go out over either Norman's or Ron's signature (which?). Steve, is there language that you've got from whatever was sent to the Ethics Committee and Board?

Thanks,
Heather

There is a great deal of eagerness among the individuals in the military to have a copy of the Report available as soon as possible, to share with their superiors. My sense is that this eagerness will only increase, especially with the story that is coming out in the New Yorker, I believe next week.

Heather, I know that on Sunday at the Task Force meeting, the military people were asking whether it would be possible to have the report released to the US gov. before its general release, if only by an hour. I assume you and Rhea will be coordinating on a plan.

You've probably already got this covered, so I apologize for the bother.
